DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the insulating body being fastened to the support plate by two solder-in clips and the plug connector having a fixing screw which engages into the first type of contact through the housing, must be shown or the features canceled from the claims. No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 8 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chen et al. 6,183,292. Regarding claim 1, Chen discloses plug connector comprising a housing 5 including an accommodation chamber 53,54, and a support plate 51 which is arranged in said accommodation chamber and divides the chamber in first and second sections, a first type of contact 1 being arranged in said first section and a second type of contact 4 being arranged in said second section, said second type of contact being a USB coupling.

Regarding claim 8, wherein said first type of contact is a socket insert.

Regarding claim 11, wherein said housing has a mounting flange (see fig. 1).

*Claims 1, 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lai 6,729,897. Lai discloses a plug connector comprising a housing 21,22 including an accommodation chamber (not numbered), and a support plate 6 which is arranged in said accommodation chamber and divides the chamber in first and second sections, a first type of contact 3 being arranged in said first section and a second type of contact 4 being arranged in said second section, said second type of contact being a USB coupling.

Regarding claim 10, the support plate is a circuit board.

Regarding claim 11, the housing has a mounting flange (see fig. 2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lai in view of Shiu 5,961,350. Lai discloses the contacts being mounted to the support plate so as to face away from each other. Lai does not disclose the couplings being two USB couplings. However, Shiu discloses two USB couplings being mounted on a support plate 12. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to modify the connector of Lai by having two USB couplings 20,22 mounted on a support plate as taught by Shiu for accommodating two connectors.

Regarding claim 3, Shiu discloses the USB couplings are surrounded by one shield each 44,46, a spring element 56,64 being provided which connects the shields with each other.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-7 and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Regarding claim 4, patentability resides, at least in part, in the plug connector having two USB Couplings surrounded by an insulating body which is fastened to the support plate by two solder-in clips, in combination with the other limitations of the base claim and regarding claim 9, patentability resides, at least in part, in the plug connector having a fixing screw which engages into the first type of contact through the housing, in combination with the other limitations of the base claim.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kuo et al. 6,343,957, Grabinger et al. 6,504,726, Zhou et al. 6,478,610, Yi 6,296,534 and Pirc 4,799,901 were cited for similar connectors.
